T21. IMMIGRATION BUREAU

[In accordance with act of Mar. 2, 1819 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 489), reports concerning immigrants were made annually to Congress by the Secretary of State, from 1820 to 1870, and statistics were collected by the State Department up to 1874. The reports for 1865 to 1867 were rendered by the commissioner of immigration appointed under act of July 4, 1864 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 385), but transmitted through the Secretary of State. The last-mentioned act was repealed Mar. 30, 1868, which abolished the first Immigration Bureau (or Commission).]

A Statistics Bureau (T37.) was established in the Treasury Department, July 28, 1866, and beginning with 1869 a report on immigration was included in the report on commerce and navigation issued by that bureau, thus duplicating the work of the State Department up to 1874, when by act of May 7, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 42), it was provided that the report on immigration should be rendered to Congress through the Treasury Department rather than the State Department. The Statistics Bureau continued to issue these reports up to 1895, duplicating the work of the present Immigration Bureau from 1892 to 1895.

The present Immigration Bureau was established July 12, 1891 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 1085). Transferred to Commerce and Labor Department, July 1, 1903; see C7.]

T21.1: Annual reports

[1820-70 (except 1822), prior to establishment of Immigration Bureau, annual reports on immigration were made by the Secretary of State, but appeared only as Congressional documents. The reports for 1865 to 1867 were transmitted to the Secretary of State by the commissioner of immigration whose office was abolished in 1868; see note under T21.]

1869-91, prior to establishment of Immigration Bureau, annual reports on immigration appeared in annual reports on Foreign commerce and navigation made by Statistics Bureau, Treasury Dept. (T37.1:.)]
