Y3.A11: Alabama Claims, Court of Commissioners of,
1st and 2d, 1874-76 and 1882-85

[The legal name of this court is Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, but the popular name is Alabam a Claims Commission.]

Created under act approved June 23, 1874. The court was organized July 22, 1874, and its duration was extended from time to time to Jan. 1, 1877. The 1st court finally adjourned Dec. 29, 1876. The powers of the clerk of the court were extended for an additional period of 2 months.

Reestablished under act approved June 5, 1882. This 2d court was organized July 13, 1882, and its time was extended to Dec. 31, 1885, the date of its final adjournment. The powers of the clerk of the court were extended for an additional period of 6 months.

The records of the 1st court were distributed to such an extent that only 3 sets could be gathered for binding at the close of the court. The set in the State Department library comprises 12 v. of Petitions, arranged by docket numbers; 38 v. of Records, arranged by alphabetically listing the ships captured, and grouping the cases under each; a volume of Opinions; a List of claims by docket number; and an Index by claimants' names.

The Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims passed upon individual claims presented as a result of the award under the Treaty of Washington; see, for publications of the Geneva arbitration under that treaty, S3.13¹; and for Receipt and investment of Geneva award money, T1.2:G28.]

Y3.C52: Claims Commissioners

[The 10 general reports issued as numbered documents are brief. They were followed by a set of reports identical in numbers and subject matter, but much amplified. These were issued in 4 quarto v., 1876-81. They are not in any numbered document series, and but 50 copies were printed. They are consequently very rare and are much sought after by claimants and attorneys. The reports were followed by a "consolidated index," making a large quarto volume, issued in 1892.

The 10 general reports are found in the Congressional set as follows:

1st general report, 1871. [1524-16]	6th general report, 1876. [1762-4]
2d general report, 1872. [1571-12]	7th general report, 1877. [1815-4]

5th general report, 1875. [1698-30]	10th general report, 1880. [1929-30].]

Y3.L44: Laws of United States, Commission to Revise

[Act approved June 4, 1897 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 58), provided "that the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint three commissioners, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States." The duties of this commission were extended, by act approved Mar. 3, 1899 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1116), to include the revision of laws concerning the jurisdiction and practice of the United States courts. By act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1181), Congress further extended the duties of the commission to include the revision of all laws of a permanent and general nature. Congress, by act approved June 30, 1906 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 754), directed that the commission should complete its work and make a final report to Congress on or before Dec. 16, 1906.

The commission was at first known as Commission to Revise and Codify Criminal and Penal Laws, later, when its duties were enlarged, as Commission to Revise Laws of United States.

Although by law the commission made annual reports to the Attorney-General, its final report was to be made directly to Congress, therefore the publications of the commission are classed under Y3., Commissions and boards, rather than J., Justice Department.

[This commission appointed by President Hayes, July 1, 1879, under act of Mar. 3, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 20, p. 394), and continued by act of June 16, 1880 (Stat. L. v. 21, p. 245), was directed by law to codify the land laws and submit a plan for the classification of the public lands, the work to be finished by Jan. 1, 1881. The commissioners were James A. Williamson, commissioner of General Land Office, Clarence King, geologist, Alexander T. Britton, John W. Powell, and Thomas Donaldson. Their publications are said to exhibit the entire legislation of Congress, up to and through the 2d session of the 46th Congress, upon which public land titles in the States and Territories have depended, with a digest of all Indian treaties affecting titles, and tables of judicial and executive decisions. After the commission ceased to exist, later editions were issued which embraced the laws passed up to the end of the 47th Congress, 1st session, but as the later editions are only continuations of the publications of the commission, brought down to date by the original compiler where possible, in other cases the work being done by the General Land Office, they are classed here with the publications of the commission.]

Y3.R32: Revision of Statutes Commission

See, for Revised statutes, S7.10.; and for Commission to Revise Laws of United States, appointed under act approved June 4, 1897, Y3.L44:

[As early as 1848 the bulk of the Statutes at large, then filling 9 volumes, led to a desire for a revision, excluding private and obsolete enactments and including the whole body of permanent general laws of the United States in one volume. In 1848 there was a strong report from the House Judiciary Committee in favor of such a revision, and other similar reports followed, with the result that an act approved June 27, 1866 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 74), was passed by Congress. The commissioners appointed under this act were Caleb Cushing, Charles P. James, and William Johnson. The first appropriation to carry out this law was in an act approved Mar. 2, 1867 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 455, 456), and it is not probable that the commissioners began work before the appropriation became available. Cushing was sent to Bogota in 1868 to adjust a diplomatic dispute, and it does not appear that he acted further with the commission. The Official register of 1869 contains only the names of James and Johnson as commissioners. By act approved May 4, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 96), the law of June 1866, was extended three years longer, and the names of the commissioners given in the Official register were Charles P. James, Benj. Vaughan Abbott, and Victor C. Barringer. Several reports were made by the commissioners in which it appeared that they had made many minor changes in the wording of the statutes, though such changes were noted in the margins. Their work was not acceptable for the reason that it was regarded as impossible to enact a revision of the statutes proposing so many changes. An act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 579), was passed putting the work under the control of a joint committee of the House and Senate, composed of Members and Senators appointed from the Committees on the Revision of the Laws of the Senate and House respectively, which was authorized to receive from the commissioners whatever reports they should make, and discharge them when their term of service expired, which was May 4, 1873. The joint committee was also authorized to contract with some person or persons, learned in the law, to complete the work of revising the statutes of the United States, and Thomas Jefferson Durant was selected to continue and finish the work. Durant revised the commissioners' work, and his revision was introduced in the House as a bill of the 43d Congress, 1st session, Dec. 10, 1873, by Benjamin F. Butler, being given the number H. 1215. The copy of this bill in the Public Documents Library is without title-page, bill number, or heading, the lines being numbered by sections as bills usually are, bound in leather, with back title: Proposed revision of laws, 1873 (see Y3.R32:P94). This bill was referred to the Committee on Revision of the Laws, and copies sent to many distinguished lawyers throughout the United States, that it might be examined and made as perfect as possible when reported to the House. The title given to the bill on its 2d reading in the House was Bill to revise and consolidate statutes of United States in force on 1st day of December, 1873. It passed the House, was engrossed, and sent to the Senate, where it also passed. The copy of the act in the Public Documents Library (Y3.R32:Ac8) bears the autograph signatures of James G. Blaine, Speaker of the House, Matthew H. Carpenter, President of the Senate, and the approval of the act signed by U. S. Grant, President of the United States. This copy was presented by Luke P. Poland to Dr. Wm. K. Mahaffey, at that time a reading clerk of the House. The act was approved June 22, 1874, and published in 1875, the volume containing also, as an appendix, an act to correct errors and supply omissions, approved Feb. 18, 1875 (S7.9:181).

A report by Durant, made to the joint committee and embodying a statement of the changes he had made in the work of the commissioners, is referred to by Mr. Poland in the debates on the bill before the House of Representatives, for which see Congressional record, Jan. 21, 1874 (X182, p. 819). This report is supposed to have been published, though diligent inquiry has failed to locate a copy.

Durant also revised the laws relating to the District of Columbia, and compiled the Indian treaties, the post-road bill, and the bill regulating the punishment for military offenses.

In 1877, George S. Boutwell was appointed a commissioner for the purpose of preparing and publishing a new edition of the 1st volume of the Revised statutes. This edition was published in 1878, and is the legal standard; see S7.10:1.]

Y3.Sp2: Spanish Treaty Claims Commission

[Organized Apr. 8, 1901, under act approved Mar. 2, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 877).

This act provided that the commission should consist of 5 members to be appointed by the President, and that their power and jurisdiction should end 2 years from date of act. The President was given power to grant 6 months extensions from time to time. The commission finally became extinct May 2, 1910. By the Treaty of Paris, Dec. 1898, the United States and Spain mutually agreed to relinquish all claims for indemnity against each other, individual as well as national, the United States at the same time agreeing to adjudicate and settle the claims of its citizens against Spain. It was for the examination of these claims that the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission was created. During the 9 years of its existence it examined 542 claims, involving $64,931,694. It awarded altogether only $1,387,845.

Although this Checklist is intended to end with the calendar year 1909, an exception has been made for the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission, and the final publications issued by it in 1910 have been added in order to make the list of its publications complete.]
