The appendixes include special reports prepared for the commission, treaties made by Nicaragua, Costa Rica, and Colombia with United States and other countries, concessions made by them to various parties for construction of an interoceanic canal, etc. Appended also is the commission's supplementary Report upon proposition of New Panama Canal Company to sell all its rights, property, and unfinished work to United States, originally published as 57th Congress, 1st session, Senate document 123, serial no. 4230.]

Y3.L44: Laws of United States, Commission to Revise

[Act approved June 4, 1897 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 58), provided "that the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint three commissioners, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States." The duties of this commission were extended, by act approved Mar. 3, 1899 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1116), to include the revision of laws concerning the jurisdiction and practice of the United States courts. By act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1181), Congress further extended the duties of the commission to include the revision of all laws of a permanent and general nature. Congress, by act approved June 30, 1906 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 754), directed that the commission should complete its work and make a final report to Congress on or before Dec. 16, 1906.

The commission was at first known as Commission to Revise and Codify Criminal and Penal Laws, later, when its duties were enlarged, as Commission to Revise Laws of United States.

Although by law the commission made annual reports to the Attorney-General, its final report was to be made directly to Congress, therefore the publications of the commission are classed under Y3., Commissions and boards, rather than J., Justice Department.
