New Classes Assigned in the Public Documents Library

January 1, 1910–October 31, 1913

In continuation of the Classification used in the Checklist of United States Public Documents
1789–1909

Issued by the Superintendent of Documents

NEW CLASSES ASSIGNED IN THE PUBLIC DOCUMENTS LIBRARY NOTE OF EXPLANATION

This Bulletin gives information as to the classification numbers assigned in the Public Documents Library to new series of publications issued by the United States Government from January 1, 1910, to October 31, 1913. The classification numbers are in continuation of those printed in the Checklist of United States Public Documents, 1789-1909. Entries for the publications themselves are not given; nor are the individual book numbers, but in every case the arrangement by book numbers is indicated, as (date), or (CT), or (nos.), or (v. nos.), etc.

"CT" refers to the 2-figured Cutter "Alfabetic-order table."

The superior letter (^a) always indicates "separates," that is, excerpts from the publication bearing the same notation without the superior letter. These separates are arranged in classes by themselves, immediately following the series from which they are taken.

The superior figures before the colon are used to differentiate between classes which may of necessity be assigned the same symbol in the classification.

For a full explanation of the system of classification used in the Public Documents Library, see p. xiii-xv of the Checklist itself.

When bureaus, offices, divisions, etc., are transferred from one Executive Department to another, or when independent publishing offices become subordinate to an Executive Department, the Public Documents Library retains the old classification for earlier issues and a new one is assigned to publications issued after the transfer.

Beginning with November, 1913, notification of new classes added during the month will be included in the monthly depository invoices.

GS. GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE

[Created by Executive order 1071, May 13, 1909, in order to more effectively carry out the spirit of the act approved Jan. 27, 1894 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 33). It was composed of one representative from each of the 9 Executive Departments and the Government Printing Office, Interstate Commerce Commission, Smithsonian Institution, Superintendent of State, War, and Navy Building, and the government of the District of Columbia. By Executive order 1088, June 16, 1909, the government of the District of Columbia was excluded. The General Supply Committee as thus organized was in active operation up to the close of the fiscal year 1910.

By sec. 4 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act of June 17, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 531) the General Supply Committee was made a statutory body under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury. The effect of this section was to abolish the General Supply Committee as organized under the Executive order. See, for information concerning the new committee, T45.]

[A Postal Savings System was established by act approved June 25, 1910. The board of trustees is composed of the Postmaster General, chairman, the Secretary of Treasury, and the Attorney General. Later amendments placed the operations of the System under the Postmaster General, and by his order dated Apr. 24, 1913, which became effective May 1, 1913, the Postal Savings System was designated as the Division of Postal Savings.

All publications with heading "Postal Savings System" or "Post Office Department, Postal Savings System," which were formerly classed under P1.2; P1.12; and PS, have been transferred to P19.]

T45. GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE

[Reorganized under sec. 4 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act approved June 17, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 531). The effect of this section was to abolish the former General Supply Committee as organized under Executive order 1071, May 31, 1909; see, for new classes issued by that committee, GS.]

The new committee is composed of one representative from each of the 9 Executive Departments. The Government Printing Office, Interstate Commerce Commission, Smithsonian Institution, and the Superintendent of State, War, and Navy building are no longer represented on the committee and the provisions of sec. 4 of the act of June 17, 1910, are not applicable to the government of the District of Columbia.

The committee is specifically required by the law to make an annual schedule of miscellaneous supplies and to standardize such supplies, eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties.

The Secretary of the Treasury under the law signs contracts for supplies (exigencies excepted) for all the Executive Departments and independent bureaus, the General Supply Committee acting as his aids. The General Supply Committee is not, strictly speaking, a Treasury Department body. The law authorizes for the committee a superintendent of supplies and 2 other employees, who are carried on the pay rolls of the Treasury Department. But the committee is not under the control of the Treasury Department. While the law does not specifically state that the superintendent of supplies shall be a member of the General Supply Committee, the present incumbent of that office is the representative of the Treasury Department and so becomes a member of the committee.]

(Cong. and later (Cong.))
- [This new class has been assigned in the Public Documents Library to the numbered series of publications entitled "Documents" or "Committee documents" issued by the Rivers and Harbors Committee.
- The Public Documents Library has transferred to this new class those publications of the committee (listed between p. 1633 and p. 1636 of the Checklist) which bear the notation "59th Cong. 1st sess., Document —" and "59th Cong. 2d sess., Committee document —." The Cutter book numbers formerly assigned to these entries have been left vacant for the present and are to be reassigned later as opportunity arises to unnumbered publications of the Rivers and Harbors Committee.
- For the 59th Congress, the committee used 2 sets of numbers, one for each session of Congress, but for later Congresses the committee has used only one set of numbers continuous throughout the Congress. Hence for the 59th Congress, both the number of the Congress and session appear in the book number with the number of the document as a superior figure, e. g. Y4.R52:59-11. For the 60th and later Congresses the session is not required in the book number, e. g. Y4.R52:601.]
